SUMMER CURLING FOR EDINBURGH SCHOOLKIDS

This summer, several local schools invited Edinburgh Curling to join their Wellness programmes. Wellness weeks introduce students to new activities and sports and are a great opportunity to bring curling out into the community.

Edinburgh Curling School coach Graeme Maguire ran sessions in one secondary and three primary schools. Each session started with a short 2-minute film covering the basics of the sport. After chatting with students and showing a few photos of local curlers in action, the kids headed to the mats. It's fair to say they caught on very quickly and showed fantastic enthusiasm.

Many of the sessions ran all day, with groups of 6-10 students trying out the sport for 20-minute blocks.

Of course, the ice was melted, but luckily the New Age Kurling Kits work brilliantly on gym floors. They're an invaluable way to bring the game to the students in the off-season. The feedback's been extremely positive, as teacher Sue Russell of Canal View Primary School explains,

“The children had a great time at curling. I think very few of them had any idea of what was involved beforehand so it has been brilliant for them to experience some new things.”

The schools visited included Canal View Primary School, Leith Walk Primary School, Blackhall Primary School, and Preston Lodge High School. We're looking forward to welcoming some new young curlers into the rink this season.

RCCC SUMMER CAMP

Summer Camp 2017 was a hugely successful event. We had 47 young athletes from across Scotland enjoying some top class coaching from star names including Sophie Jackson and Bruce Mouat.

The youngsters took part in hill walking, climbing and rounders; as well as on ice sessions, of course! Thursday evening was the highlight of the week for many as 12 performance athletes joined us, teaming up with the campers to compete in five 1 end games in a bonspiel format. The feedback's been amazing, here's just a taste of some of the comments:

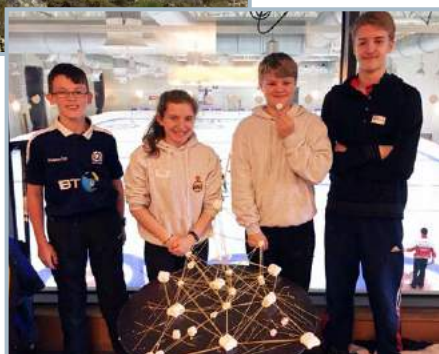

“ I like the coaches as they were fun & supportive.

They took time out of their days to help us perfect our slides ”

“ I loved the training from the pros and the social aspect ”

“ The coaches were AMAZING ”

A WARM WELCOME TO THE NEW SEASON

The summer months are such a busy time for us here at the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, with reporting on the season past and planning for the exciting year ahead taking up most of our time. Of course we have the Olympic and Paralympic Games to look forward to in February, and there's lots of extra work to be done to capitalise on the increased interest while the nation's gripped by curling.

In 2017-18 new participants will be targeted through the TryCurling programme; with sessions on offer in every ice rink. Some rinks have already run their first sessions whilst others will have TryCurling on offer throughout the season with peak numbers around the Olympics and Paralympics in February. If every member invited a few friends or colleagues to TryCurling, we'd be delighted.

We'll be promoting a new initiative; CurlFest, which will be run in October with our charity partners Cash 4 Kids. This will provide a fantastic opportunity for communities to experience curling at their local rink. We're hoping lots of them will enjoy it so much, they'll return to a TryCurling session in future. The ultimate aim, as always, is to attract new people to play or join a local club.

August saw the opening of the National Curling Academy at The Peak Sports Centre in Stirling, a project that's taken more than fifteen years from concept to completion. It's been achieved thanks to support from Stirling Council and National Lottery funding from sportscotland. The facility houses a four sheet ice hall, accessed through the main entrance to The Peak. Our performance programme training is based there; it's a fantastic, dynamic venue which we are delighted to have. We look forward to making full use of this wonderful new space for athletes and club curlers alike.

Planning for the World Junior Curling Championships in Curl Aberdeen this coming March 3rd – 9th is well underway, with an experienced local organising committee. We'll advise members when tickets go on sale and are very much looking forward to seeing the best young curlers in the world coming to Scotland.

WCF CONGRESS REPORT

The Annual Congress of the World Curling Federation took place September 14th – 17th, in Bled, Slovenia. Scotland's nominated representatives (Bill Duncan, Bob Kelly, Susan Kesley and Bruce Crawford) attended the three days of meetings and actively participated in the discussions.

They debated the proposed changes with 140 delegates from all over the world, including the new nations of Afghanistan, Kyrgyzstan, Portugal and Saudi Arabia. The RCCC was also represented by Willie Nicoll from the WCF Governance Commission. David Murdoch from the Athletes Commission and the RCCC President Jim Cullen, along with his wife Liz, attended as observers. The outcomes from the decisions that were made at the WCF Congress and AGM can be seen on their website.

TALENT ID DAY AT THE PEAK

We partnered with British Curling and Scottish Disability Sport this September, for a very successful Curling Talent ID Day. The athletes loved the fresh new surroundings of the National Curling Academy.

The purpose was to find active athletes from other sports who were looking for a new challenge, with everyone involved enjoying a presentation from Sheila Swan, Head coach of the British Wheelchair Paralympic Team. This covered the aim of the game and various adaptations available, as well as the programme pathway to the Paralympics. This was followed by some expert coaching from Sheila and Tom Killin, Assistant Coach to the British Team. Every athlete was able to achieve success, with Sheila's creative thinking coming up with solutions where required to help people achieve. Some athletes were wrapped up warmly for their on ice session whilst others were keen to show how well they could cope with the cold! Sheila Swan was delighted with the commitment and progress shown in just a short time and is even looking to work with some of the athletes in the future. With the Winter Paralympics fast approaching, it's hoped there will be a surge in interest in wheelchair curling, from grass roots level to those with the potential to progress to the very top.

BRITISH OLYMPIC CURLING TEAM SELECTIONS

One of the biggest stories of the summer is, of course, the announcement of the athletes selected to represent Team GB at the Winter Olympic Games in Pyeongchang, in February. Team Scotland earned Team GB's places for both the men's and women's events. The athletes have been training together in the new National Curling Academy in Stirling and have competed in two early season competitions in Canada.

The selectors from British Curling followed a selection policy and process that had been published on the British Curling website.

It detailed the nine criteria that could be used in comparing the teams who applied and this included world ranking and results.

Team Muirhead had a clear lead in the women's world rankings; meeting the automatic selection criteria.

For the men, the decision was more complex. Three teams were considered; with Team Smith the eventual choice. In 2017 Team Smith became the first British men's team ever to reach a Grand Slam final (in Cranbrook, Canada). They had the highest world ranking at the start of the Olympic season.

They had a strong record against likely opponents in South Korea.

The British Men's Team comprises:

Kyle Smith (Skip), St Martins Curling Club, Perth

Kyle Waddell, Hamilton and Thornhill Curling Club, Hamilton

Thomas Muirhead, Dunkeld Curling Club Blair Atholl/Perth

Cammy Smith, St Martins Curling Club, Perth

Glen Muirhead (Alternate), Dunkeld Curling Club Blair Atholl/Perth

The British Women's Team comprises:

Eve Muirhead (Skip), Dunkeld Curling Club, Blair Atholl/Perth

Anna Sloan, Lockerbie Curling Club, Lockerbie

Vicki Adams, Stranraer Curling Club, Stranraer

Lauren Gray, Balfron Curling Club, Glasgow/Braehead

Kelly Schafer (Alternate), Dun Curling Club, Forfar.

Norway, Sweden, China and Japan have all chosen their Olympic teams; others will be making their selection closer to the games.

The selection of the British wheelchair athletes to represent Paralympics GB will be made in October and follows a policy detailed on the British Curling website.

We send all of the selected teams our best wishes and good luck, as the preparations build towards February 2018.

GREENACRES

Reaching the Junior Women's final in the first Slam event of the season were Team Davie (Stirling) and Team Farmer (Kinross) who both qualified from the same section and won their respective semi-finals. In their round-robin meeting, Team Davie won 4-3 in a very tight affair.

The final was another close battle in which Team Davie dominated the middle ends. Team Farmer played a great seventh end to score 3 with come around draws from Katie McMillan and Kirstin Bousie, and a four foot draw from skip Beth Farmer. With the score level, Team Davie played a solid last end to score 2 and win 7-5. As part of the incentive system funded by RCCC Academy and Foxglide, Team Davie will now go to Copenhagen to play in a Nordic Junior Curling Tour (NJCT) event.

In the Junior Men's final, Team Whyte (Dumfries) and Team Baird (Murrayfield) met each other, both having qualified top of their sections and winning their semi-final encounters.

After a tight first three ends in the final, Team Baird took 4 in the fourth end to lead 5-2. Team Whyte fought back and didn't give many opportunities after that. With a steal in the eighth end to level the score, Team Whyte also stole the extra end to win.

COACHING AND DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE

Our second Coaching and Development Conference took place at Hamilton Ice Rink on Sunday September 24th. We were delighted with the 100% turnout for the fully booked event and the feedback from everyone who attended has been so positive.

RCCC Director Hugh Templeton opened the day's proceedings by highlighting the 'golden ticket' opportunity presented by the Winter Olympic and Paralympic Games, and the importance of working together to achieve a strong legacy.

Development staff Judith McCleary, Ailidh Hood and Helen Kallow presented sessions on Try Curling, and Inclusion Awareness. Fiona Harfield launched the Ready, Steady, Curl course; which pilots in November. It's aimed at people who want to get involved as curling helpers during coaching sessions.

Guest speakers Anthony Drew and John Ross from Kinross-shire Cricket Club (KCC) gave a talk entitled 'What if no-one turns up?' It might seem an ominous title, but it details the highly entertaining and insightful story of Kinross-shire cricket club and how a group of parents, with no experience of running a sports club, created "The best cricket club in the world", as dubbed in The Scotsman Newspaper.

From the verge of collapse the club became an international sensation only to be hit by a massive setback, yet again, which meant they had to rebuild for a second time in 5 years. It was a full and frank look at club life covering the ups and downs over a 15 year period. Attendees have told us they found this section 'very inspirational'.

International players Bruce Mouat and Judith McCleary who have represented Scotland for the last six years in separate teams at the World Mixed Doubles Championships gave a joint presentation on 'An insight into Mixed Doubles'.

The afternoon sessions on ice were organised by Scottish and British Curling Head Coach Tony Zumack and RCCC Disability Officer Helen Kallow. Participants were split into four groups and spent a couple of hours looking at fault analysis and correction and disability modules split between Vision Impaired Curling and Wheelchair Curling. They were given the opportunity to wear glasses that simulated vision impairments and the opportunity to use stick delivery in wheelchairs.

RCCC CEO Bruce Crawford rounded up the day, reflecting on the key learnings from the conference and thanked everyone for making it a very successful day.

GOLDLINE SCOTTISH CURLING TOUR - BRAEHEAD OPEN

The first Tour event of the season kicked off at intu Braehead last weekend (22nd – 24th September) with women's teams, men's teams and mixed teams all in contention.

The semi-finals saw Team Bryce overcome Team Woolston (England) and Team Hare bypass Team Marshall. The final was really gripping viewing; with both teams using an aggressive style. Scores of ones and twos in the first few ends led the game to be tied 3-3 after five ends. Team Hare took a 2 in the 6th, however Team Bryce piled on the pressure by taking 3 in the seventh.

Lots of stones in play made for an exciting final end, and Hare was left with a challenging double takeout for the win, but the angles didn't go in their favour, leaving Team Bryce the 2017 Braehead Open champions.

RCCC ACADEMY EVENTS

The National Curling Academy hosted the 2017-18 RCCC Academy athletes for their first training day in August. 30 athletes, along with RCCC coaches, received coaching on technical and sweeping models from Tony Zummack, British Curling Head of Coaching, and Lindsay Thomson, British Curling Physiotherapist. They then got the chance to put everything they'd learned into practice.

Ten Academy teams had a grand day out in Mugdock Country Park, at a team building exercise this September. Outdoor Adventures Scotland really put them through their paces; in the glorious late summer sunshine. It's clear the young athletes pictured are thoroughly enjoying themselves!

'Understanding Talent' was the focus of our final summer workshop. Athletes, parents and coaches heard a motivating presentation by Tony Stanger of Stanger Pro. This centred on how to help athletes reach and maximise their potential.

CURLFEST: GET INVOLVED!

We're excited to be rolling out a new campaign across the country this month: CurlFest.

We already know these special events will be a fantastic opportunity for everyone to get involved in curling; and it's hoped it'll also hook some new recruits.

Rinks up and down Scotland are looking forward to opening their doors to the whole community, allowing everyone to have a taste of the sport in an inclusive, welcoming and vibrant atmosphere.

The aim is to boost attendees to Try Curling sessions in future.

We've partnered with Cash for Kids, a long established charity doing some wonderful work to support children across Scotland.

Each CurlFest event will be unique; involving everything from face painting, cake and most importantly, a whole lot of fun!

UMPIRING REFRESHER DAY 2017

A great turnout of 46 Umpires attended the 8th Annual Refresher Day at Lanarkshire Ice Rink recently, along with Umpiring Convenor Graham Lindsay, RCCC Head of Development Judith McCleary and top International Ice Technician Mark Callan.

Graham opened with a review of the activities of the Umpiring Committee over the year along with the number of competitions both at home and abroad at which RCCC umpires had officiated.

Graham then introduced Fiona Harfield, the new RCCC Workforce Development Manager who explained her role. Fiona has come from the world of Hockey so already has a good idea of sport development.

Judith McCleary then gave a tribute to Alan Stephen who is retiring after many years in charge of IT for all aspects of Umpiring. This was all done on a voluntary basis and helped us to keep up to date with changes in technology. He will be a hard act to follow, however Judith announced that Eoin McCrossan has been appointed to IT Support and also Competitions Co-ordinator for RCCC.

Alan Stanfield then covered a number of off-ice developments that had taken place during the season as well as future ones planned, including a website based Umpiring Toolbox to support umpires of all levels in fulfilling commitments.

Alan then went on to highlight the proposed rules changes that were being discussed at the WCF Congress taking place the same weekend.

This led on to Mark Callan giving a very interesting insight into what is involved in being an Ice Technician at a major competition, from installing the ice (usually 5-7 days prior to an event), marking the sheets, including multiple logos, preparing the ice for play, then the on-going maintenance and prep during the competition. Mark emphasised that for a competition to run smoothly good communication between the Ice crew and Umpires was essential, and this was something he always tried to establish early on at an event.

Splitting into small groups those present looked at a number of videos and written scenarios considering the relevant rules and how they were applied. As usual they provoked plenty of discussion points!

The morning concluded with Harold Forrester explaining the new procedure on 'Time Clock - Team Low on Time', before Robin Turner gave a summary of his first-hand experience of 1-2-1 CU feedback.

After lunch an exercise on ranking from last season's Glynhill Ladies International proved a good test of which rules needed to be used to decide who played in each of the play-off games.

The afternoon then moved out on to the ice where everyone had the chance to practice their measuring skills, and also to work with the laser measures and the Curl Distance app, something which some Umpires had started using the previous season.

There was also some more scenarios to consider as well as an Anti-doping quiz which proved very popular, with some groups managing a perfect 10 out of 10 score!

The day could not finish without the result of the traditional caption competition which this year was won by Gordon Whitelaw with RCCC Vice-President Graham Lindsay presenting the prize.

Graham then summed up another very successful day with a vote of thanks and wished everyone a good season both on and off the ice.
